DAY 1 / OLD DELHI

Fort walls & living lanes 03

Delhi reveals itself through contrasts: the scale of a gateway, the quiet of a garden, the movement of a market. Let one neighbourhood or major visit give each day its shape. The places and order in these pages come from your own itinerary.

Use the maps to understand the route, the field notes to plan each visit, and the journal to remember a detail that caught your attention. Allow time for breaks and the journey between places. A shorter day can leave a stronger memory.

YOUR ROUTE / CHAPTER 01

Fort walls & living lanes

Follow the changing scale of Shahjahanabad, from monumental spaces to the rhythms of everyday streets. The places you chose tell different parts of the same city story.

01 / HERITAGE

Red Fort

Red Fort, Old Delhi

Beyond the red walls

The Red Fort asks you to slow down. Beyond the gateway, the scale shifts from defensive walls to the spaces of an imperial court: a covered bazaar, audience halls and palace buildings. Read them as a sequence rather than a collection of isolated monuments. The contrast between public ceremony and more private royal spaces is the thread to follow.

Look along the main axis, then turn your attention to carved surfaces, shaded edges and the spaces between buildings.

THE APPROACH

Use the Lahori Gate visitor approach as your orientation, then follow current ASI entry and security instructions. The monument-centre map pin is not a drop-off point.

02 / SACRED PLACES

Jama Masjid

Jama Masjid, Old Delhi

A courtyard above the city

In Old Delhi, the movement of the streets gives way to the openness of Jama Masjid's courtyard. Steps, gateways and the monumental mosque frame a different rhythm from the lanes below. This is a living place of worship. Let the visit follow the mosque's instructions and the needs of worshippers; a pause here is as much about attention as architecture.

Notice how the gateways frame the city beyond the courtyard. Keep photography considerate and follow instructions on site.

THE APPROACH

Choose the gate currently admitting visitors and agree your group's meeting point before entering. A nearby Metro station is only the first part of the approach.

03 / NEIGHBOURHOODS & HERITAGE

Chandni Chowk

The streets of Chandni Chowk

The city at street level

Chandni Chowk is best approached as a small, chosen slice of a much larger neighbourhood. The pleasure is in noticing how trades, shopfronts, deliveries and everyday journeys share the same streets. Choose a clear meeting point and a manageable circuit. You do not need to cover every lane for the district's character to come through.

Choose one stretch to explore slowly. Look above the shopfronts as well as at street level, without blocking the flow of people.

THE APPROACH

This is a neighbourhood, not one ticketed gate. Pick the lane or landmark you want and a station exit or agreed collection point for your return.

PRACTICAL COMPANION

A little preparation. A better day.

Check opening days, admission, weather and air quality before leaving. Allow for queues, security and the final approach from transport. Confirm the entrances and access arrangements your group needs. At places of worship, follow local visitor instructions and respect prayer times.

DAY 1 / YOUR TIME & TRANSPORT

Estimated finish: 17:41. Day timing is incomplete: a base or station connection is missing. Review the journeys before relying on the finish time.

Known transport subtotal: ₹0 for the group. Admission and food are separate. Some fares or timings are missing; this is not a complete trip cost.

Base → first stop: Choose a base station and include the first attraction's arrival leg.

Last stop → base: Choose a base station and include the last attraction's departure leg.

Base walking is a time allowance only: no private address or invented base walking path is mapped.

Travel timing is incomplete. Review the missing base or station connections.

Chandni Chowk: Hours are not verified in this planner. Check the place guide and operator; this is not an all-day opening assumption.

Reading the maps: the street background is stored inside this PDF. Local street detail is fullest around Old Delhi, Nizamuddin and Mehrauli. Metro lines connect station positions; they are not surveyed tracks. Dashed connections are unverified. Pins identify places, not guaranteed visitor entrances. Use current signs and the separate detailed offline PDF for walking instructions.

Travel thoughtfully: support local places, ask before photographing people, keep to permitted paths and leave monuments as you found them.
